Your train stops at a station where you wish to spend a day and you are CURBS NERVOUS EXHAUSTION, Want of the Company of th Can be Saved from a Drunkard's Grave. TURKISH LIFE TABLETS will positively and bermangully cure those who may be stilled with the terrible Liquen. Opium or Tobacco labit, essicating from the system the awint raving draine which so many find hard to relin-nish.

Your train stops at a station where you wish to spead a day and you are about to step from the car when from three to six coolies block the door, all wishing to grab some parcel from the car. They have no baggage car in India, says a correspondent of the Buffalo Express, and every one must take his baggage into the car where he rides and look after it himself. Perhaps you may have four parcels; if so, then at least eight coolies who have blocked your door will endeavor to handle it as it is taken out of the car and put into a "gharri" or carriage. When you come to settle with them at least ten will want to be paid, and in order to get away from the mob (for they will literally mob you) you pay three times as much as you ought and yet feel thankful that it is as well with you as it is.

On arriving at your hotel you are booked at the office and shown to your room, when the same rush for your baggage is repeated by the coolies, only their number is less. In due time your four bundles are safely deposited in your room and the coolies have disappeared. Now comes a time for reflection and you drop into the first chair you come to. One of the first objects that attracts your attention is the bed. You proceed to examine it closely and take an inventory. First there is a hard mattres; second, one sheet; and these comprise the whole thing. You put in an appearance at the office and make inquiries as to bedding and room boy. You are told by the clerk with one of his most bland expressions that this hotel does not furnish bedding nor servants to look after your room; but in a quiet tone, just above a whisper, he will inform you that a servant will be sent to your room, but you must pay him. By this time you are in a condition to say "yes" to anything, and you say; "All right, sond him on."

The boy puts in an appearance and you try to make him understand your mother tongue, but it is of no earthly use. If you chance to have a little smattering of French or German you try tem in succession, also to no use. Then by motion t Look and be Youthful as long as you can.

TURKISH LIFE TABLETS will cause the blood to flow through your veins as in youth; will impart to the old New Lite and Vigor; strength to these whose nerves and physical system have been overtaked. The tired and worn out organs begin to show new life, the complex lon become's clear as an infant's, the eyes sparkle in brilliancy, and doce more you are TURKISH LIFE TABLETS is a brain and nerve lood, for an overtaked brain often gives rise to many dissuess of the nerves, and works incalculable machief through the entire system, in many cases leading to the varge of inaceity. MERCHANTS, BANK ERS, CLEEGYMN, PHYSICIANS. NEWSPAPER MRN, DRUGGISTS, and all those who require clear and active brains can not fail to appreciate the unequaled virtues of Turkish Life Tablets. expect, so you open your valles and bring them forth.

It is the same with your rugs and bedding, and after all is brought to light you motion to the boy to make up your bed and he does it with alacrity. Your 7 o'clock dinner is announced and you proceed to the dining room. After being shown a seat you naturally look around for something to eat, or perhaps more particularly for some one to wait upon you, but no one comes. Waiters are passing and repassing on your right and left, and there you sit with "cuss words" running through your mind swift and fast. You cannot help it and you are not to blame for what you cannot help. Finally, when you think forbearance has ceased to be a virtue, you look about the room for the "head man," as he is called in Indian. You beckon him to your side and, in tones of smothered indignation, say to him that you want something to eat.

He will pleasantly say to you: "We have an abundance to eat, but do not furnish table waiters I will send you one if you like, but it will be charged in your bill."

"All right," you say.

one if you like, but it will be charged in your bill."
"All right," you say.
The servant comes to do your bidding, but cannot understand a word you say. However, the courses are designated by numerals, 1, 2, 3, &c., on the menu card, so you say bring or that number. You ask for tea or coffee and are informed that neither is furnished at dinner. At the same time you hear the report occasioned by the opening of wine. beer and champagne bottles, which, by the way, is quite suggestive to one—that is, if he be a Prohibitionist. In this manner you manage to get through with your several meals. After remaining twenty-four hours you wish to go to the next objective point or city, and in ner you manage to get through with your several meals. After remaining twenty-four hours you wish to go to the next objective point or city, and in order to make the most time you ride at night. You order your bill sent to your room, and at the same time you order your "gharri" to take you to the station in time for the 3 p. m. mall train, which is always on time and is the best train to ride on in India.

As the room boy comes in followed by half a dozen coolies you are made aware that the "gharri" is at the door. Now each coolie wants a job and will come for his his backsheesh whether he does anything or not, so you let the six cooles carry four pieces of baggage. You give the room boy the amount thought necessary to pay all and shout to the direct to go.

The station is just reached in time, and by the help of the station watchman and a large number of coolies you are quickly stowed away in the car, a room 8 by 12 feet. Your car door is beset by coolies as well as the watchman, all asking for backsheesh, and after you have distributed all your loose change to those you think earned it they still clamor for more. For the life of you it is impossible to tell one from the other, for they dress, or rather undress, alike.

Up to this time no one else has come into the car, which is calculated to carry at least four persons. The train moves out of the station and you find yourself shut in with no visible means of escape, and as you have nothing else to the car with which to set the air brake, and are unable to find either. Then the car doors are locked on both sides and you find yourself shut in with no visible means of escape, and as you have nothing else to not bed or couch. Wyoming Must Wait.

Chicago Tribune.

Wyoming has not yet made any show of its resources, but the members of the Board of Trade of Cheyonne and other inductial persons in the Territory have united in a petition to the Governor to take the initiatory steps for calling a constitutional convention and having the constitution submitted to the people next November. So far as population is concerned Wyoming is even worse off than Idaho, as its total yots is only about 1,000. The population by the cenaus of 1880 was but 20,789. Idaho and Wyoming will have to wait until some other time, but there is no objection to their getting "a good ready."

Shortsighted, and to be pitied, is the woman who rejects this wonderful article—PEARLINE. Inconsiderate the one who does not supply her servants with it. Its popularity—immense sale and the hundreds of imitations—all tell of its usefulness; besides, it's old enough to have died long since were it at all dangerous to fabric or hands. On the contrary, in doing away with most of the rubbing it saves the worst of the wear.

Use it without soap—It is economical. Beware offering imitations which they claim to be Pearline, or "the same as Pearline." IT'S FALSE—they are not, and besides are dangerous. PEARLINE is never peddled, but sold by all good grocers.

Dry Goods. NEW YORK, May 18—A fair business was done in dry goods to-day, but there was no new feature. The market was unchanged and with the previous unward tendency on goods there were more orders than sales. Satins and challies are fairly active, and there is more doing in medium and saple prints.
